

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to methods and devices for administration of vaccines and gene therapeutic agents into the intradermal layer of skin.